We appreciate this comes at what continues to be a very difficult time for the industry and we wish to assure you that we remain committed to the development of cost effective, quality products, solutions and services. However, even though we continually improve internal efficiencies, we are unable to absorb all cost increases impacting our business and we are unable to rule out any further future price movements should the crisis continue for a prolonged period of time.

Price files in excel format will be available from May 2026. Please do not hesitate to contact our local Business Development Manager to request a price file, alternatively email sales.uk@walraven.com if you require any further information.

Assuring you of our best attention at all times.

With kind regards

Phillip Handley
